

BIOSKETCH SIMONE SPRIO

Simone Sprio, Senior Researcher at the Institute of Science and Technology for Ceramics of the Italian National Research Council. Scientific Responsible of the research group on Bioceramics for Regenerative Medicine at ISTECCNR. Main fields of investigation are: biomimetic calcium phosphates, bone cements and 3D scaffolds with cell-instructive ability for hard tissue regeneration; intrinsic antibacterial biomaterials; biomorphic transformation processes; drug delivery systems. Author of >120 peer-reviewed papers and book chapters. Inventor of 9 funded international patents. More than 100 communications at International Conferences including 25 Invited Lectures. Scientific Responsible or WP Leader in several national and EC-funded projects. Organizer of International Congresses, Symposia and Workshops. Supervisor of various M.Sc. and Ph.D students and young fellow researchers.